APRIL LETTER

We are thrilled to announce the development of Intellectual Output 4 – "Training Model" as part of our Erasmus+ Project "aIMS(M) – An Integrated Method to Support Migrants"! This includes creating a training path and methodology to address labor market needs and educational opportunities in the commerce and service sectors.

WORKSHOPS

One aspect of IO4 involves conducting hands-on workshops which will bring together stakeholders, entrepreneurs, and job-seekers, including migrants, to discuss and identify key digital and technology competencies for technical positions. Concrete solutions and work plans will be provided to equip participants with the skills needed for today's job market.

GUIDELINES

In addition, we are creating an online handbook for staff and teachers, enriched with methodologies, resources, and assessment instruments. It will help establish learning objectives, identify training opportunities, and provide rules for managing the instruments.

We are excited to see the positive impact of this training model and how it will contribute to empowering migrants and improving their employment prospects.

We're online!
